TOOMEY'S ARREST MAY BRING PROBE OF BIG GAMBLERS

Bank Official, Held for Embezzlement, Was Known as "Easy Mark"

WIFE WEEPS BITTERLY IN CITY HALL CELLROOM

Prisoner Near Collapse and Doctor Is Called in to Attend Him

"Bookies" who are said to have got huge sums from Charles E. Toomey, assistant secretary of the Fidelity Trust Co., will be forced to disgorge their winnings if a way can be found to do this legally.

Toomey, arrested in a barber shop yesterday on a charge of embezzlement from the trust company, and held under $25,000 bail for court by Magistrate Meekley at City Hall, was still in the cell of Central Station today, while his brother, Richard Toomey, hurried about town trying to get bail.

Toomey's wife visited him this morning and wept bitterly in the cellroom and sat beyond the outer set of bars which surrounded the prisoners' cage. A chair was placed for her, and her husband leaned against the wall of his cage to get as near her as he could.

For nearly an hour the wife sat there talking with her husband in low tones. Both sobbed bitterly but what they said to each other could not be heard.

Toomey was without collar and seemed dazed. His wife, a good-looking woman wearing middle age, with hair just streaked with gray, was sitting on a Alice blue silk and wore a lace hat.

Spent Restless Night

After her interview Mrs. Toomey left the cellroom accompanied by another woman, who had brought her to see the prisoner, and who was said to be Toomey's sister-in-law. After the visit Mrs. Toomey was joined in City Hall courtyard by Richard Toomey.

Toomey spent a restless night. He paced up and down nervously in the cell, and his wife was almost on the point of collapse. So ill did he seem to be that Dr. John Egan, one of the police surgeons, was sent for and prescribed for him.

The exact amount of Toomey's alleged embezzlement has not been disclosed by the trust company. In the warrant on which he was arrested this total was set at $250,000. Those who are said to be hearing Harold B. Beitler, counsel for the company, said he had reason to believe from later investigations that the amount proved to be much smaller than that named.

The plan to force the bookmakers to pay back the money they are said to have won from Toomey has been discussed by city detectives and by officials. Detective Joseph Le Strange, who made the arrest on a warrant sworn out by William P. Gest, president of the company, will confer with Mr. Beitler on this aspect of the case.

So far as it has been possible for the investigators to learn, the accused bank official told the truth when he said that he had lost all the money he had won either on the race track or by gambling in one form or another.

May Probe Big Gamblers

The arrest brings to light activities of big gamblers in Philadelphia, and may lead to widespread prosecutions. Every day in the city are waiting and waiting for developments in the case and wondering whether its ramifications will involve him.

Apparently Toomey did his business with the "big fellows." At least, this is what the smaller gamblers who make their headquarters in the shadow of City Hall say. They scarcely knew him, they said. Those who do know him, however, say he was a "sucker" of the first water, always easy to "trim," and ever eager to come back for more of the gambling proceeds.

The majority of the gamblers declare, however, that they did not know him at all, and would have bid eagerly for his bets and they been familiar with his gambling proceeds.

"He must have been the customer of some of the big bookies," said one of the gambling fraternity today. He probably did his business with the big fellows who send their agents around to do business in the bankers' offices."

Cards and Dice

Habitues of some of the pool rooms in town said they knew Toomey well, and that he lost money on "Honest John" as well as on dice and horses. The game of "Honest John," played with cards, was introduced into many of the gambling houses here, their proprietors being anxious to get all they could out of the getting was good in the belief that with the ending of the Smith administration the gambling houses would be closed up.

Men who said they knew Toomey as a resident in the city, however, declared they had known him to lose heavily at this game, but that he always paid his losses "on the nail," and that his checks were gilt-edged.

The rumor of the gambling houses being closed up.

He was removed to the Cooper Hospital, Camden, in a passing auto-bus, where it is stated his recovery will be a matter of five weeks.

ANTHRACITE MINERS IN FACTIONAL SPLIT AS WALKOUT LOOMS

Strike, if It Comes, Will Be Strictly an "Outlaw" Movement, Which Is Not Expected to Become General in Pennsylvania Fields

PREDICTION MADE THAT FEWER THAN 20,000 MEN WILL OBEY ORDER OF INSURGENT LEADERS

Dissatisfaction With President's Award Only One of Many Irritating Factors—Disappointed Candidates for Office Endeavoring to Foment Trouble

By GEORGE NOX MCNEIN
Staff Correspondent of the Evening Public Ledger

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Aug. 31.—A "close-up" of the threatened strike of the anthracite coal miners does not encourage the view that it will be a general one.

If there should be a walkout it will be in the nature of an "outlaw" strike. It will be in every particular a rebellion here in the hard-coal fields of the famous "outlaw" strike of the Chicago railroad switchmen some months ago.

There are over 120,000 miners in the anthracite regions. Of this number it is said that not less than 10,000 and not more than 20,000 will lay down their tools.

This statement is based on first-hand observations of those residents here who are familiar with conditions. It is wholly unbiased, and I regard it as reliable. The situation presents an odd mixture of radicalism, restlessness and revenge. It largely harks back to factional jealousies among certain of the miners' leaders.

Charge Attempt to "Get Even"

While there certainly is dissatisfaction with the award of 17 per cent advance to the men by President Wilson's anthracite coal commission, it is not the only factor that is contributing to the threats of a walkout and a closing of the mines.

The reputation, by a certain element among the miners, of the union officials is not, I am assured, so much a protest against the constituted authority of the United Mine Workers as it is an attempt of certain dissatisfied and disappointed leaders to "get even."

Incidentally—and knowingly or unknowingly—the insurgent leaders, it would appear, are playing into the hands of the operators. They are in a fair way to split the forces and weaken the power of the union, if the popular idea is correct that this is a consummation.

SAYS GIRL'S HAIR FASCINATED HIM

"Snipper" Gives This as Excuse for Cutting Off Curly in Movie

PICTURE HAT SAVED HER

"Her beautiful hair captivated me," said Simon Becker, twenty years old, of Reese street, near Wharton, when arraigned today on a charge of snipping curls from a fourteen-year-old girl in a Market street movie yesterday.

Edna Christ, 5613 Wallace street, who was attending the theatre with her sister, was the victim of the snipper, who was arrested after he had cut several curls from the girl.

A broad picture hat, worn by the girl, saved most of her hair, but the snipper obtained several curls, one of them eight inches long.

The incident took place at 5 o'clock, when there were not many persons in the theatre.

Becker sat directly behind the two sisters. According to the police, he had cut all the curls protruding from the brim of the hat when another patron called the attention of an usher to the man's strange action.

Would Have Cut More

Miss Christ was unaware that she had been robbed of her curls until the usher accepted the man.

Becker was arrested by Patrolman Murray, of the Fifteenth and Vine streets station. When arraigned today before Magistrate Grellis, the man said: "I would have cut off more of her beautiful curls but for her hat, which covered most of them. I have no excuse to offer. I was captivated."

Becker, a business at Thirteenth and Arch streets, was at the hearing. He expressed the desire to meet Becker on the street.

Magistrate Grellis held Becker in $500 bail for court.

Miss Christ, who is a student at the West Philadelphia High School, for girls, looked up the loss of her curls called amusing incident.

"They will grow again," she said.

INTRUDER AWAKENS WOMAN

Alarm—Man Escapes

A negro intruder was discovered at 2:30 o'clock this morning in the home of Miss Anna Rhoads, 3587 Queen lane, Falls of Schuylkill. The man escaped.

Miss Rhoads told the police she was sleeping in the first floor room, and that she was aroused by a noise and that she saw the negro near a door.

A window had been left open and Miss Rhoads jumped through it, screaming for help. Crowley and Miles, patrolmen of the Twenty-second and Hunting Park avenue streets, responded. They searched the house and the neighborhood but found no trace of the intruder.

LONGSHOREMEN STRIKE

Boston, Aug. 31.—(By A. P.)—The strike of longshoremen against steamships and marine companies under the British flag, in protest against the English attitude toward Ireland, was extended to this city today when three women pickets induced the crew of sixty men to quit work on the Leyland liner in Stouan, leading for London.

With all the longshoremen on the Niothan out the women led the Hoosac dock to Clyde street pier in an attempt to have the dock crew working on the Leyland liner Caldonia join the strike.

CHILDREN SAVE HORSES

Six Youngsters Lead Twenty Animals to Safety as Factory Burns

Joseph Krug's six children, the eldest only eighteen, helped him lead twenty horses from their stalls in his livery stable at 1223 North Mascher street early this morning, when fire destroyed a factory building next door.

The fire was confined to two buildings occupied by Louis Zaitla, a curled hair finisher, at 1523 North Mascher street. These buildings were badly damaged, however, and the stock destroyed. The loss was estimated at $25,000, and said he believed the fire had been caused by an explosion of some sort in the boiler room at the rear.

Night watchmen in neighboring mills saw the flames at 2 o'clock this morning and turned in an alarm. The fire was extinguished after stubborn fight.

The driver of the motorcar, William Eckert, Kensington avenue near Tioga street, told the police he did not know how the accident happened, as he did not see the boy in front of his machine.

TRUCK HITS CAR; ONE HURT

Driver Severely Injured When Steering Gear Falls to Work

As a result of serious injuries sustained yesterday when the motortruck he was driving collided with a trolley car at Old York road and Hunting Park avenue, William Deagler, 1213 West Atlantic street, will receive from his friends messages of sympathy rather than of congratulation on his twenty-ninth birthday anniversary, which occurs today. He is in St. Luke's Hospital, suffering from the loss of four toes and a compound fracture of the left leg.

Deagler was driving a 2 1/2-ton motortruck north on York road yesterday afternoon and as he was crossing Hunting Park avenue the vehicle struck a brick, the shock causing derangement of the steering gear. Getting beyond Deagler's control the heavy truck swung around and ran into a south-bound trolley car. Deagler was thrown from the truck and his left leg was run over.

Police Say Stranger Was Lured to Lonely Spot and Robbed

Laurence Jones, a negro, of Newport News, Va., was robbed of $155 at Baymont street and Taber road at 1:50 o'clock this morning by two other negroes, one of whom posed as his friend.

In the struggle the robbers dropped two letters, bearing the names and address of Norman and Savage, 848 North Darien street.

Police and detectives of the Tenth and Rattowood streets station, later raided the North Darien street house and arrested seven men. They were charged with highway robbery. They gave their names as John Norman, Russell Norman, Harold Savage, George Sims, "Doc" Craney, Joseph Stibtoe and Lawrence Fisher.

Police say Jones came to this city to collect back pay from the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad and alleged that Harold Savage led him to the lonely spot, where another man was waiting to aid in the robbery.

Plans provide for Watkins speaking first, to be followed on the program by Governor Cox. Mr. Roosevelt, it was said, probably would deliver only a short, informal address. The present making was to take place as soon after the noon hour as possible.

Denies Counseling Secrecy

Mr. Upham also denied flatly that the official bulletins issued from his office to field workers engaged in raising the Republican campaign fund were secret or counseled secrecy. He pointed out that the only prohibition in that respect referred to these bulletins was added to the Republican campaign chest figures presented by Chairman Hays yesterday when Mr. Upham revealed that the Republican senatorial and congressional campaign committees are to raise independent funds.

He testified that the national committee had agreed to lend the senatorial committee $200,000 and the congressional committee $200,000, if they have been seen and have contributed.

Probe Joint Fund Plan

Senators Kenyon and Reed went into the effect of the joint arrangement, which whereby certain state organizations agreed to raise their funds under auspices of the national committee and receive back a fixed proportion of the money for state purposes.

"No one is in agreement with Senator Reed that in a state where there was no such arrangement there was nothing to prevent the state and county committees from collecting any size fund they could raise."

The witness maintained, however, that in the states where the joint arrangement was in use, additional collections were difficult as to be practically prohibitive.

"I think no one could go over that territory again and raise funds, because every man approached would say, 'I have been seen and have contributed,' he explained.

"Nonsense," Says Senator Reed

"That is nonsense," rejoined Senator Reed. "They do not see one in ten. I undertake to say that more money has been raised and expended in every fight you have had in the city of Chicago than the national committee ever saw. That will be true this fall not only in this city but in other centers."

"There certainly is no way to stop a man from spending his own money," said Senator Pomeroy.

"No one has been able to stop Tammany Hall in New York," interjected Senator Spencer.

"What business of the state at the other end of the city, either," rejoined Senator Reed.

"Mr. Upham would not express an opinion as to whether it was right to pay campaign speakers and Senator Kenyon remarked that it was a question of etiquette which scarcely fell within the purview of a campaign treasurer."

The witness said his job was to keep the speakers' bureau from exceeding its budget. Asked by Senator Reed whether there was anything to prevent the national committee from donating its budget, Mr. Upham rejoined: "They would have to get a new treasurer if they did."

"No one is a new chairman," remarked Will Hays, who sat at Mr. Upham's elbow.

Contributions of $1,017,255

During his testimony Mr. Upham declared that the Republican National Committee received $1,017,255 in contributions for both national and state campaigns between June 14 and August 20. Of this sum he said, $618,613.54 was for the national campaign and $398,241.78 for state purposes.

Mr. Upham presented to the committee the names of 12,559 contributors and fixed their average contributions at $82.11. He also presented a budget showing the committee had planned to spend $3,070,037.20.

Plans provided for the "quota sheet" was renewed the committee, on demand of Senator Reed, sent Mr. Upham back to his office to produce the much discussed sheet showing the amount each contributor was to give for both national and state campaign purposes.

Call for All Records

Senator Reed also instructed the

JAIL SUSPECT WITHOUT BAIL

Slacker Reported Having Been Recognized on West Chester Pike

Grover Bergdoll, convicted draft dodger and escaped army prisoner, was reported seen last night speeding along the West Chester pike in the direction of Philadelphia in a powerful red roadster machine accompanied by a woman. The machine was without lights or license tags.

Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Mather, of Ardmore, thought they recognized Grover, and followed the suspect in their machine, but lost him at Newton Square.

This is the third time Grover has been reported seen in this vicinity in the last few days.

According to Mrs. Mather, the machine with the man she and her husband thought was Grover in it, came from the Bergdoll estate on the West Chester pike near Broomall.

"Grover was seated at the wheel in his shirt sleeves," Mrs. Mather said. "As he swung into the road, I could see a large, dark, oval-shaped car with an enormous gasoline tank on the rear and a number of spare tires. There were no lights visible and we could not see a license tag.

"My husband and I followed them for several miles to see where he was going, but his car was too fast for us. He was going back and forth on Newton Square, notified a policeman. The car was then out of sight."

The Bergdoll estate on the West Chester pike, near Broomall, is the home of Grover H. Bergdoll, who began a four-year sentence in Fort Leavenworth on August 20. Grover, his brother, is wanted by the federal authorities to serve a five-year sentence for evading the draft.

The Department of Justice agents here said they "took no stock" in the report of Grover being here.
